

Workspaces

Workspaces are areas where you can collaborate with colleagues and peers across the world.

One public workspace (accessible to everyone) is managed by the Wheat Initiative Secretariat, and provides information and documents on wheat research.

All other workspaces are private, and serve as platforms to share working documents, ideas and events. Private workspaces are completely secure. Any registered member of the Wheat Initiative website can set up a workspace, or ask to become a member of the already existing workspaces. When you create a group, as the workspace manager, you can invite others to join you in the workspace. Each workspace provides a directory of its members.

To access the workspaces, log in or register in the footer below.

Source URL: <https://www.wheatinitiative.org/activities/workspaces>